

People using cell phones in small spaces are very disruptive to others sharing that space. The 50 years I have been flying on commercial flights have gone well without the use of cell phones in the cabin except for extreme emergencies when they have been used irregardless of the rules baning their use. Leave the rule as it is.